FOREWORD

The accompanying list of institutions has been compiled in the Office of Experiment Stations by Howard Lawton Knight, editor of Experiment Station Record, under the auspices of a special committee of the Experiment Station Section of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities, consisting of the following members: Mr. J. T. Jardine, Chief of the Office of Experiment Stations, chairman; Vice Director A. Boss of the Minnesota Experiment Station; Director S. B. Doten of the Nevada Experiment Station; and Director B. E. Gilbert of the Rhode Island Experiment Station.

The list has been prepared primarily as an aid to the State agricultural experiment stations in the distribution of their publications in foreign countries. Under the general plan adopted there are listed for most countries a relatively small number of "primary research institutions", with a supplementary and considerably larger list of "additional research institutions." The primary list includes a total of about 300 institutions which are deemed outstanding as to agricultural research or library facilities, and was compiled with a view to use in a general distribution of station publications. The "additional" list includes about 950 institutions and provides opportunity for a more extensive distribution, especially along subject-matter lines. Many of the institutions in this group are of much importance in specialized fields, the nature of which is usually indicated by their titles.

The list as a whole represents a composite from many sources. The classification for the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics was contributed by Dr. N. I. Vavilov, head of the Lenin Academy of Agricultural Sciences, following a conference during his visit to the United States, and may be regarded as authoritative. Invaluable assistance for other countries was rendered by various staff members of the Minnesota and Missouri Experiment Stations, Provost A. R. Mann of Cornell University, Dr. Kenyon L. Butterfield of the International Missionary Council for the Orient, Dr. C. A. Browne of the U.S.D.A. Bureau of Chemistry and Soils, and others. The very helpful series of publications of the International Institute of Agriculture at Rome, considerable data accumulated by the Office of Experiment Stations from time to time, and the mailing lists of the U.S. Department of Agriculture were among other sources of information which were freely drawn upon.

The list is distributed at this time both with a view to its service to the stations in the problem of foreign distribution of their publications and as a basis for study and further revision. Additional information will result in additions and deletions, but it is felt that needed changes may best be developed by subjecting the list to wide scrutiny and actual use. It is hoped that suggestions along this line will be brought to the attention of the Office of Experiment Stations as promptly as possible in order that they may be available when revision of the list is undertaken.
